THE PENNSYLVANIA MUSEUM

AND

SCHOOL OF INDUSTRIAL ART.

TWENTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES.

THE past year has been one of great activity in all departments of the Institution, and has been extremely fruitful in all that concerns its development and the services for which it is organized.

By means of a fund raised for the purpose by friends who appreciated the nature and extent of the services rendered by Mrs. E. D. Gillespie, twelve free scholarships, to be known as the Elizabeth Duane Gillespie Scholarships, have been established in the School for whose advancement she worked so untiringly.

The death of Mrs. Gillespie, on October 13, 1901, removed one of the most faithful and efficient servants that this Institution has ever known. At a special meeting, held October 23, 1901, the Board expressed its sense of the loss sustained by her death by adopting the following resolution :

“The Trustees of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art have met to record as well their personal sorrow as their sense of the loss sustained by this Institution in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Duane Gillespie.

“The descendant of a man illustrious in the history of Philadelphia, Mrs. Gillespie set an example to both men and women in active public spirit and good citizenship. Her work as President of the Women’s Centennial Committee contributed in an essential degree to the success of the great exhibition of 1876, whose results are still felt in the industrial progress of the United States, and in the æsthetic and artistic spirit it awakened.

“This Institution, founded to perpetuate the influence of the Centennial Exhibition, appealed strongly to Mrs. Gillespie’s interest. On her return from a sojourn in Europe, twenty years ago, she put unreservedly at its services the same organizing energy that already had aroused and directed the patriotic zeal of American women in support of that great enterprise. The Associate Committee of Women was formed by her upon the foundation of the Women's Centennial Executive Committee, and became at once an important factor in the work of the Institution and a leading influence in its growth.

"It is the privilege of the Board of Trustees to bear testimony to the indispensable services rendered by Mrs. Gillespie and the Associate Committee of Women throughout these twenty years, in the administration of the Museum and the Schools, in raising funds for their maintenance and improvement, and in promoting the public interest in their work. The successive extensions of the Schools would not have been possible without this aid. Particularly is it due in large measure to the zeal and energy of Mrs. Gillespie that the requisite subscriptions were obtained to make available Mr. Weightman's generous offer and acquire the property at Broad and Pine Streets, which has given the School of Industrial Art of the Pennsylvania Museum its present unexcelled opportunities of public usefulness.

"In expressing the obligations of the Institution to the Associate Committee of Women, the Trustees feel that they are paying the truest tribute to the distinguished woman who had been from the first its guiding head. Her wide knowledge, her clear perception, her courageous foresight and untiring zeal, made Mrs. Gillespie a most valuable associate in any enterprise of public moment such as this. While her influence was felt from time to time in many civic activities, the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art was the object of her constant and her closest care, and by continued zeal in its support will her memory be best honored in the community that her long and useful life enriched."

The high standard of work accomplished in the School which has been noted with so much satisfaction in former reports has been more than maintained, and the results as shown at the close of the School year indicate in several lines a distinct advance over the work of preceding years. This is especially true of the application, in the Textile School, of the principles of artistic design, of which it is the first duty of the Institution to cultivate a knowledge, and to encourage appreciation. As no precedent whatever for the work which the School has undertaken existed in America, the task of formulating methods, and, especially, of training teachers has been a difficult one, and among the sources of the satisfaction with which the Board contemplates the work accomplished by the School, none is regarded as of more importance than the service rendered by the corps of efficient and devoted instructors, most of whom have received a large part of their professional training in the School itself. The splendid results, for example, attained this year in the department of weaving on power- as well as on hand-loom, results which reflect the greatest credit on the instructors in charge, could not have been accomplished without a kind of proficiency on their part which is altogether exceptional, and it is a pleasure to the Board to record in this place its appreciation of the spirit in which those in charge of this department have worked for its success.

In the School of Applied Art the results are not less commendable, and in general the School has won not only the highest commendation from competent judges, but has earned in very full measure that sincerest of all praise, the tribute of imitation, the distinctive features of which the School was the first exponent in America having been so generally adopted throughout the country as to constitute by far the most prevalent, as they are undoubtedly the most valuable, additions to the methods of Art- and Technical-Schools, the eager multiplication of which throughout the land is among the most encouraging signs of the times.

Under the fostering influence of the Associate Committee of Women, the organization formerly known as the Students' Club has changed its title to the "Art and Textile Club."

This club now includes all the clubs of the School and the Women's Auxiliary Organization founded in March of this year. It is self-supporting and officered entirely by the students.

The oversight of the Sub-committee of women, who are in deepest sympathy with club spirit, has been most admirable, and the organizations are of great moral and physical benefit to the students.

The activities of the Museum have not been less pronounced and successful than those of the School. The repairs and thorough renovation of the building which were made possible by the generous appropriation of about thirty thousand dollars by City Councils have made Memorial Hall exceedingly attractive, and have added immensely to the educational influence which the collections exert. The attendance is now just about double that of last year, and the constant use of the collections by students, for whose accommodation ample facilities are provided, furnishes gratifying evidence of the fact that its advantages are appreciated. It is part of the requirements of several departments of our own School that pupils should work from the collections at the Museum, and classes in charge of no less than eight of our instructors have made use of the collections this year,—similar use of them being made by the other schools of the city.

This increase of usefulness has also been attended by a most encouraging growth in the collections, the popular interest in the Museum having resulted in a rapid increase in most valuable accessions, in the form of both gifts and loans, which testify abundantly to the estimation in which the Museum is held by the community. The nature and extent of these accessions are fully described in the report of the Director and Curator, and it only remains to be added in this place that these valuable additions have added enormously to the need of more room, which is now most pressing at the Museum as well as at the School.

This is indeed the problem of most immediate importance which confronts the Board. The generosity of private benefactors supplementing a liberal appropriation of City Councils has, during the past year, supplied a large number of show-cases, and all the available space is now occupied by collections which are arranged and displayed with a system and attractiveness that has never been possible before; but a large amount of most valuable material is still stored in the basement, or awaits our disposal in other places for lack of room in which to display it. The construction of an extension to the Hall in the form of two wings on the north front would seem to be the true solution of the problem, and it is hoped that means may be found in the near future to make this much-needed addition to the facilities of this branch of the institution.

At the School a similar need is not less urgent. Special attention has already been given in these reports to the growth of the department of Chemistry and Dyeing; to the exceptional value of the work it is accomplishing, and to the necessity for increased facilities under which it labors at present. So congested has the situation become that satisfactory work in the Dyeing rooms is now impossible, on account of the interference of the fumes from the Chemical Laboratory, the two branches being so crowded together as to virtually occupy the same rooms. A temporary structure for use as a dye-house to be erected at the Fifteenth Street end of the south yard during the summer vacation will relieve the situation somewhat, but the erection of a suitable addition of a permanent character for the adequate installation of this department cannot long be deferred if the School is to maintain the position which has unquestionably been accorded it hitherto.

Respectfully submitted.

THEODORE C. SEARCH,
President.

REPORT OF THE MUSEUM.

The twelve months ending May 31, 1902, have been marked by great prosperity for the Museum. During this period there were 1659 accessions to the collections by gift and purchase and 2014 by loan, making a total of 3673 objects received. Among the most important additions are an ancient throne chair from a Persian mosque; a richly chased and inscribed silver vase of historical interest, made by Reed, of Philadelphia, and presented by the Whigs of the same city, during the Henry Clay Campaign of 1843, to Hon. James C. Jones, the Governor of Tennessee, for valuable services rendered by him; a beautifully painted bleu de roi ewer and bowl of Sevres porcelain, said to have been made for Napoleon in 1805; a collection of Colonial relics illustrating the domestic, industrial and farm life of our forefathers; a large collection of Colonial and Continental currency; a valuable collection of Oriental pottery and porcelain, the bequest of Dr. Francis W. Lewis, with new cases to display the same, presented by the Misses Lewis; also many rare and characteristic pieces of American pottery.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED DURING THE YEAR.

Since the publication of the previous Report the extensive repairs to the building have been completed. The interior has been thoroughly renovated and painted, and the lighting and ventilation have been greatly improved. The roof and dome have been made water tight and placed in good condition. The sum of $2,500 was appropriated by City Councils for much needed cases, and with this fund new wall cases have been constructed on the east side of the Textile Room and the west side of the Southeast Pavilion. Through the generosity of Mr. Clarence B. Moore, handsome new wall cases have been provided for the Northeast Pavilion of the suite of rooms containing the Bloomfield Moore Collection. Other new cases have been built in the Southeast Pavilion from funds received from the Mrs. Frederick Graff bequest. The Chinese cases from the Centennial have been repaired and newly painted and many other cases in the building have been improved.

The Coin Collections have been installed in floor and wall cases in one of the North rooms. Mrs. W. D. Frishmuth's extensive Collection of Colonial Relics has been placed on exhibition in an adjacent room. The collection of American Pottery and Porcelain has been completely rearranged, newly labeled and thrown open to the public. Many minor changes in the arrangement of the cases and collections have been made in other parts of the building.

A room has been fitted up for the use of students on the second floor, and the guards and attendants throughout the building have been uniformed.

While the general collections of art objects on exhibition in the building are fairly representative of the industrial progress of various countries in ancient and modern times, particularly the pottery, glass, enamels, wood and ivory carvings, metal work and textile fabrics, the unique historical collection of American pottery and porcelain has perhaps attracted more widespread attention than any other, and since it has been opened to the public in its new quarters it has become one of the most popular features of the Museum. Of the four rooms which have been set apart for this exhibit, the first contains characteristic examples of the pottery of the 18th and 19th centuries; the second is devoted to porcelain and white ware of the United States; the third to historical and art tiles; and the fourth to Aboriginal earthenware of North and South America.

NEW DEPARTMENTS AND HONORARY CURATORSHIPS.

During the year six additional departments have been established. The Museum has been most fortunate in securing well known specialists to fill the several Honorary Curatorships as follows:

Arms and Armor, Mr. Cornelius Stevenson.

Musical Instruments, Mrs. W. D. Frishmuth.

Sculptures and Casts, Mr. Charles Grafty.

Furniture and Woodwork, Mr. Gustav Ketterer.

Prints, Mss., Bookplates, Historic Seals, Prof. Charles E. Dana.

Philately, Mr. Edward Russell Jones.

It is expected that each of the ten departments now organized will, with the valuable assistance and advice of those who have taken charge, prove an important feature in the educational work of the Museum.

PUBLIC RECEPTIONS.

On December 7, 1901, the day preceding the re-opening of Memorial Hall, the Trustees of the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art tendered a reception to the Mayor of the City, the Commissioners of Fairmount Park and the Finance and Fairmount Park Committees of Councils. On this enjoyable occasion the members of these several bodies were given the opportunity to inspect the recent improvements and to become better acquainted with each other and with the educational work of the Museum.

On the 3d of May, 1902, a tea and reception was held at the Museum by the Museum Committee and Associate Committee of Women, Mrs. William T. Carter acting as Chairman of the joint committee. A large number of the friends of the Museum were in attendance, who were pleased to express their appreciation of the greatly improved condition of the building and of the newly-arranged exhibits.

SPECIAL MUSEUM FUND.

The following circular letter was recently sent to the friends of the Museum asking for contributions to a special fund for the purchase of art objects:

The actual value of the extensive collections of art objects in the Pennsylvania Museum is conservatively estimated at $1,000,000. These collections are on exhibition, free to the public, every day in the year. The Museum is visited by over 250,000 people annually, and it is believed that during the year 1902 this number will be doubled.

The cost of acquiring and adding to these valuable collections has heretofore been largely borne by a few generous patrons of the institution. Opportunities are constantly being offered to make desirable additions to certain of the collections on unusually favorable terms. In order to raise a necessary fund to enable the Trustees to purchase objects now procurable, it is proposed to solicit contributions of $5.00 to $25.00 from the friends of the Museum. The money thus obtained will be used solely for the purchase of the following-named objects:

1. Examples of old English china bearing historical American designs in dark blue and other colors, to complete the already admirable collection of Anglo-American pottery now on exhibition—the best public collection now existing.

2. Specimens of rare and curious musical instruments for the new Department of Musical Instruments, recently established.
3. Arms and armor of all times and countries.
4. Laces, embroideries and textile fabrics.
5. Pieces of silver and gold work.
6. Furniture and carvings.
7. Rare and artistic pieces of pottery and porcelain.

Are you willing to contribute $5.00 or upward to this special fund? If so, will you kindly fill in the enclosed slip and return it, at your convenience, to

The offertory fund represented by the last item is composed of small donations from visitors, ranging from one cent to one dollar. From these popular contributions in past years many of the most interesting objects on exhibition have been purchased. If each person who visits the Museum during the present year should contribute five cents, this fund would reach a sum between $15,000 and $25,000. Contributions averaging only one cent each would form a purchasing fund of $3,000 to $5,000.

As the Museum collections are open every day in the week (entirely without any entrance fee) to the public, the foregoing suggestion is specially recommended by the Director of the Museum: Let every one who visits the Museum, from this time out, give something in the glass globes placed there for that purpose, and thus quietly raise a large yearly sum of money, which will place our Museum at the head of such institutions in the United States and largely increase its collections and usefulness.

ATTENDANCE.

The attendance for 1901 shows an apparent falling off from the previous year, which was caused by the closing of the building for more than four months, from August 5th to December 8th, during the progress of repairs. The number of visitors registered while the building was open was in reality no less than for the corresponding period in 1900. Since the opening of the doors on December 8th the admissions have been greater than during any corresponding six months in the history of the Museum. For the five months of the present year, from January 1st to June 1st, the date of this Report, the attendance reached 190,288 which was greater than that of any other Museum in the United States, with possibly one exception.

The largest registration for any single day was 16,801. Following is the average daily attendance during the first five months in 1901 and 1902:

	Weekdays.	Sundays.
1901,	289	2908
1902,	423	6439

This remarkable increase, which is largely due to the improvements in the building, made possible by the liberal appropriations of City Councils, is a gratifying evidence of the growing popularity of the Museum. It will be noticed that the average attendance, on Sundays, from January 1st to June 1st, was 6439, or over 65 per cent. of the total registration for that period.

A PRESSING NEED OF THE MUSEUM.

By the rearrangement and concentration of some of the collections it has been possible to place on exhibition the greater portion of the accessions received during the past year. Every department, however, has become uncomfortably crowded and several important collections formerly on exhibition have been temporarily retired for lack of proper facilities to display them. The time would seem to have arrived when some provision should be made for the accommodation of this material and that which may hereafter be received. The most pressing need of the Museum at present is more room for expansion, and it is to be hoped that early relief may be afforded either by the construction of new wings to the building, the roofing and enclosure of the West Arcade, or the alteration of a portion of the basement to provide the necessary floor space for the rapidly increasing exhibits.

ACCESSIONS TO THE MUSEUM.

Following is a list of objects received during the year:

SCHOOL OF INDUSTRIAL ART.
BROAD STREET FRONT.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

PRESENTED AT THE CLOSE OF THE TWENTY-FIFTH SCHOOL YEAR
JUNE 5, 1902.

The School has been attended during the past year by 929 pupils, 600 of whom were men and 329 women.

Miss Margarette Lippincott, Instructor in Water-color Painting, who was absent during the preceding year, resumed her connection with the School in October last, and Mr Albert Behm has been appointed instructor in Chemistry; with these exceptions no changes have been made in the teaching staff.

In the larger field of direction and support the School has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Mrs. Gillespie, who had, as one of the most active and efficient organizers of the great exposition of 1876, which marks the beginning of the movement which this School represents, and as one who had, ever since that time, given to its development unremitting and untiring service, as rare and exceptional in its nature as it was generous and unlimited in extent. She was indefatigable alike in her efforts in behalf of the School itself and for the individual welfare of the students, a considerable number of whom were indebted to her for personal direction and guidance as well as for the material assistance which made possible their attendance at the School, as well as the careers of usefulness and honor for which the School was a preparation. The memory of her devoted example and the service she rendered will long be cherished among the most helpful and inspiring influences which have shaped the character and marked the progress of the School.

An important addition to the agencies for promoting the social and recreative phase of student life has been made in the organization by the young women students of a club, known as the "Girls' Industrial Art League." A room on the first floor of the Broad Street front of the School building has been assigned to the use of the League, and has been attractively furnished and adapted to the uses of the organization, the vitality and resourcefulness of which have already been manifested by several entertainments and meetings which promise much in the way of healthy development and enjoyment.

The "Art and Textile Club," composed of young men, has also been organized, and the management of the Club Room and Gymnasium, which were added two years ago by the Associate Committee of women, has been formally transferred to the student body by that Committee. The "Warp and Weft Club" and two fraternities (the "Delta Kappa Phi" and the "Delta Phi Psi") continue with undiminished activity the work so well begun a few years ago.

The first steps have also been taken this year to form an Association of Alumni, and such an organization, numbering upwards of a hundred members, has already been effected among the former students of the Textile School. Mr. Bradley C. Algeo has been elected President, and the first general meeting of the Association is to be held in the Auditorium of the School on Friday, June 6th. A similar movement is in progress among the former students of the School of Applied Art.

Among the improvements made in the building and grounds, one which deserves special mention is the improvement of the garden in the Central Court, which has been made very attractive through the generosity of Miss Helen Taylor, a pupil of the School, at whose expense the work has been done, as a memorial to Miss Frances L. Farrand, the well-beloved instructor whose death was noted in my last Report.

The development under Dr. Matthews' very efficient direction of the Department of Chemistry and Dyeing renders imperative the necessity of more adequate accommodations, and I trust that a suitable building for this purpose can be erected in season to be available at the beginning of the next School year.

During the year there have been three hundred and twenty-four accessions to the Library of the School, divided as follows:

Books,	62
Collections of photographs, prints, etc.,	74
Periodicals,	17
Pamphlets and Reports,	171

Of these, thirty-six books and collections of prints were purchased, the remainder being the gifts of the following:

Academy Fellowship (Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts), Alfred University, American Architect and Building News, Applied Arts Book, Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Mr. E. A. Barber, P. P. Caproni & Bro., Carpet and Upholstery Trade Review, Chicago Art

REPORT OF THE ASSOCIATE COMMITTEE OF WOMEN.

The Associate Committee of Women has rounded out another year of service and it is the Secretary's pleasing duty to report that great interest has been shown by its members. The monthly meetings have been well attended, at which times reports have been read from all the different Committees, so that each member has been kept in touch with the work of the organization as a whole.

At the annual meeting the Treasurer reported the amount of money on hand from all sources was $1,936.67.

We have read with special interest of the many gifts given to the Museum during the last year, and also of the constantly increasing number of visitors to the Museum, particularly on Sunday afternoons.

The Students' Club has prospered, and the reading room with its attractive surroundings has been fully appreciated by the students of the School, as has also the pool table and other pleasures connected with the athletic side of life, and the Committee feel sure that these pleasures help to keep up the moral tone of the students.

A great shadow fell upon the Committee at the October meeting when we heard of the illness of our President, Mrs. Gillespie, and very shortly afterward the notice of her death came to us. She was gone! She who was the originator, the heart and centre of the whole work, and the source from which came the impetus to do our best, and for a time we felt as if the end of the work too must come; but we took heart of grace and have gone steadily on with that work which was so near to her heart.

The minutes in memory of Mrs. E. D. Gillespie were prepared by Miss Fannie S. Magee and have been placed on the minute book.

At the annual meeting in January Mrs. Edward H. Ogden was unanimously elected President, Mrs. Richard Peters, Vice President, Miss Ellen McMurtrie, Treasurer, and Mrs. David E. Dallam, Secretary.

Mrs. William D. Frishmuth had kindly offered her Colonial relics to be exhibited at the School, and we had at the same time the promise of a fine collection of textiles from Boston to be shown; so it was decided to combine the two exhibitions. Numbers of beautiful tapestries were also loaned us and the result was most gratifying.

Mrs. John Wister, as Chairman of the Textile Committee, took charge of the exhibition, and it was to her untiring energy that much of the success was due.

The exhibition was open free to the public for the month of April, and the number of visitors was great. Mrs. Wister had interested a number of young girls in the work, and each afternoon tea was served by them to the visitors, at which time at least one of the Associate Committee was always present.

In connection with this exhibition there were four lectures given for the students on subjects relating to art. Through Mrs. Jones Wister we had a most beautiful concert given for us at the Garrick Theatre, by Madame Gadske, and the amount raised by this method, $600, was given to the fund for the proposed new chemical laboratory.

The only other festivity to note was the afternoon reception at the Museum in the month of May, which was very successful.

It is gratifying to know that all these entertainments became the means of interesting many new persons in the Institution.

The work of the Committee has now ended for the season, and with thanks to those who have "held up their hands" by helping them in their work, and looking forward to a renewal of their efforts in the autumn, this report is

Respectfully submitted.

A. L. DALLAM,

Secretary.
